BY THE GOVERSOR. A THANKSOLVING PROCLAMATION.

The recurrence of each autumnal season, bringing anew the substantial tokens of Divine favor, reminds us that we should render to Almighty God public acknowledgment of our gratitude for His manifold blessings.

Now, therefore, I, William E, Smith, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do hereby appoint Thursday, the 24th Day of November, instant, as a day of Public Thanksgiving and Praise. Let the day be observed by the suspension of public and private business, and by the holding of appropriate religious services and social festivities.

In testimony whereof, I have becaunte set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Wisconsin to be affix-(Great Beal) Done at the city of Madison, this seventh day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand WILLIAM E. SMITH.

By the Governor: HANS B. WARNER, Secretary of State.

There are 14,500 rivers and small streams in the United States, and 23,900 lakes, according to the last census.

Mr. Blaine thinks Cuba is cheap at 500 millions, and says the United States can afford to buy it at that price. The men who have shot at Guiteau seem to have been under the influence of some stories of French duets, and of course missed. The strong-armed lumbermen would not ask but one chance at Guiteau. There would not be any "cranky" busi ness about the result. Dr. Thomas's appeal trial will take place before a judicial conference of the Methodist church, which will begin at Terre Haute, Indiana, on Wednesday, the 30th.

The Democrats of Wisconsin will soon settle down to a peaceful state of mind. They will probably not get another shaking up till 1891, and they will feel glad to have a rest.

Mr. Sarony, the well-known New York photographer, has paid Patti $1000 for the exclusive privilege of taking her picture in the United States. He paid Bernhardt.31,500 for her sittings last year, and made a handsome little fortune out of it.

It is three years yet before another presidential election takes place, but still the Democrats are talking up a barrel candidate for that year. They have tried bar'l candidates, handsome candidates, reform candidates, soldier candidates, war failure candidates, and all have been carried down to defeat.

Those who have charged that Colonel Ingersoll has been guilty of plagiarism when he made a brief temperance speech before the jury in the Munn trial in Chicago, in 1876, and think they can prove it, will have a chance to make some money. The Colonel offers a thousand dollars to any one who will show that the lines he used are not origanal

It may be set down as a fact that if there had been capital punishment in this State there would have been no mobto lynch Ed. Maxwell. Mob violence will only bread out when the legal punishment is inadequate for the crime comntality will probably plead for the safety of the murderer's neck regardless of consequences upon

The State officers elect recently held a meeting in Madison to talk over the question of appointments to positions in the capitol, and an understanding was reached as to the more important positions. It is said that Captain Timme will select Professor M. T. Park, of Elkhorn, for Assistant Secretary of State. General Rusk will appoint his son, L. J. Rusk, as his private secretary. Charles F. Frickes, of Milwaukee, will be chief clerk of the land office. W. H. Bennett, of the Mineral Point Tribune, who has been patent clerk in the land office will be superintendent of public property. Mr. J. A. McFetridge, of Baraboo, brother of the new State Treasurer, will be assistant treasurer.

A prominent Democratic paper-the Buffalo Courier-asks: "Is there not some degree of imbecility about the management of the Democratic party?" This is a conundrum which will probably puzzle the Democrats. But considering the fact that the Democratic party has been defeated at six successive prosidential elections, that in the 22 Northern States the Republicans have 18 Governors and as many Legislatures, that the Democrats have lost the majority in Congress, that Bourbonism has been strangled in Virginia, and that the country has no confidence in Democracy, it does look as if there is some imbecility, or whatever else you may call it, about the management of the Democratic party.

The Milwankee Sentinel, which is always ready to tear down but slow about attempting to build up, has found a sweet morsel in an alleged expose of gross abuses at the Waukesha Industral school for boys. The expose to which the Sentinel devotes three columns are brutality to the inmates and general . mismanagement. The Sentinel is very careful not to charge these things against the Industrial school, but attempts cautiousness by mying that probably the stories were started by some soreheada. atill the Sentinel hastens to publish the alleged gross abuses and mismanagement and thereby does the Industrial school and the officera thereof an injustice. There may be chances are that they are not, and before the Sentinel has some reliable informstion that there are such things existing there, it should not have been in too great haste to blacken the reputation of so important an institution as the Industrial school for boys.

CUBIOUS CROWDS.

A Disorderly Gathering as the Open lug of the Court in the Assassin's

Washington, Nov. 21.—The second week of the Guitoau trial was begun this morning. The scenes around the Court house prior to the opening of court and while the trial was in progress, were of the most disgraceful character. The was a much greater demand for admission to the court-room than usual The attempt made on Saturday last to kill the prisoner naturally incited the curlosity to see him, and this curiosity was whetted by an announcement that Guiteau would have something to say on the subject. It is within the province of the marshal to keep #out of the private on. trauces to the court persons who have no business there, and compel the general public to enter the chamber by the public door. To morrow Marshal Henry says that the proper rules will be enforced, and there will be no repetition of the unpleasant scenes of toetition of the unpleasant scenes of today.

This morning the jury was kept out of the court-room for more than ten minutes by a mob which had barricaded the corridor through which the jurors were to pass. They would not have reached the court-room at the appointed hour if a detachment of policemen had not been detailed to remove the crowd from the corridor. Even the judge had difficulty in reaching the bench to-day.
Great confusion was caused in the court room by the pushing and angry whispers of the half-washed mob.
Once a woman scroamed at the top of her voice in pain and terror, interrupting
Mr. Scoville in his argument, to rid himself of the people who were literally self of the people who were literally crowding her into a fainting condition. A small boy, jammed in between the legs of some of the older heads of the court room, created great amusement by his desporate efforts to escape from the position where his curiosity had brought him

The prisoner and jury were brought into court soon after Judge Cox had taken his seat upon the bench. It was well understood, as indicated in these dispatches look that the Ed. dispatches last night, that G. H. Rob-inson, Esq., assigned to the defense by the court, would be compelled to ask the court to relieve him from further duties in connection with the trial to-day. The difference between Mr. Scoville and Mr. Robinson made that the latter should quit the case.

That the latter should quit the case.

Fully half an hour elapsed after the adjournment of court before the prison van was driven to the court house and the prisoner taken back to jail. He was escorted from the court house to the van by six officers of the court, who completely surrounded him, and five mountain religious and resident prisoners. ed policemen accompanied the van to the About 800 people were assembled on the court house grounds to see the assassin put in the van, and no violence was offered him.

IMPORTANT RUMOR.

Rumored Sale of the Green Hay & Minnesota Road.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 21.-For several days rumors have been affort, and have gained considerable credence in railroad circles, that the Chicago & Northwestern railway has purchased the road now called the Green Bay, Winona & St. Paul, better known as the Green Bay & Minnesota, of which the well-known railway magnate. John J. Blair, of Blairsville, N. J.,, is president and chief stockholder. It is known positively that Mr. Blair has been in Chicago that Mr. Blair thas been in Chicago for several days since his departure from this city, and the sale, it is alleged, has been completed during that time. The consideration cannot be learned, but it is understood that the sum is considerably in advance of the amount paid by Mr. Blair a year ago $600,000, when it was sold at United States Marshal's sale to satisfy a claim of D. M. Kelly et al., of Green Bay. Important suits are pending against the road to recover certain lands granted to the road while Mr. Kelly was President. It is understood that ly was President. It is understood that the suits will all be discontinued by mu-tual consent. It is rumored that the Northwestern will erect a $150,000 depot on the lakeshore next year.

REPUBLICANS IN CONGRESS.

The computation by which this result is reached, is this: The Republican strength is as follows: Regular Republicans, 146; two Virginia Readjusters, 2; Hyatt Smith, Independent, 1; five of the eight Greenbackers, 5; total Republican vote, 154; regular Democrats, 136; Greenback Democrats, 3; total, 139; leaving a Republican working majority of fifteen.

THE WHITE HOUSE.

The Old Rookery Undergoing Ex-tensive Repairs. WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.-The White House is now undergoing repairs, and will probably be in a habitable condition by December 1st. The room occupied by the Hayes and Garfield family as a sleeping room, and where the late President lay during his long illness, has been The White House Undergoing painted a light blue. The room across the hall, in the northwest corner, which down to the time of Presi dent Hayes' occupancy, were family apartments, will be used for this purpose y President Arthur. The suit consists of the small room done in two shades of blue panels, which was occupied by Grandma Garfield, and the larger room or the corner, which is painted crimson. The library, which is on the south side of the hall, between the cabinet room and the apartments occupied by the Garfields, has also undergone the rough renovation. Up-stairs, the family apartments have been moved across the hall from the southwest to the northwest corner, and the walls, have been Jone over the result of the corner. ner, and the walls have been done over in new tints. The pipes about the house have all been repaired, and to a great extent renewed—a renovation which has not taken place before for thirty-five

LAKE WINNEBAGO.

Озикози, November 21.—The sluiceway ordered to be constructed in the Neenah dam to allow of the free passage of the surplus water in Lake Winnebago has been completed and comprises eight sections, giving a headway of 146 feet. Two of the sections were opened to day, and the water will be allowed to run through there as long as there is no danger of flooding Appleton. The Appleton mill-owners threaten to bring suit in case of damage, but the mill-men of the city pledged themselves to pay all loss es. The cold weather of the past few days has affected navigation. The Fox river is filled with floating ice, and steamboats have encountered fields of it in Lake Winnebago.

THE COMING WEDDING.

New York, Nov. 21-Miss Clara Louise Kellogg has announced her engagement to Mr. T. B. Whitney, of Philadelphia, whom she met for the first time abroad-The marriage will be solemnized at the close of Miss Kellogg's present engagement in the latter part of March, in New York, not in Chicago, as previously stated Miss Kellogg has sold her villa on the Hudson and intends building a house in New Hartford, Conn., but Mr. and Mrs. Whitney will live abroad a greater part of the time.

HORRIBLE DEATH.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 21.—James Osborne, an employe in the North Chicago rolling mills, met with a horrible death by the explosion of the turnace upon which he was sitting, the gas burning him almost beyond recognition.

AN ELOPEMENT.

LAKE GENEVA, Nov. 21-A little ripple of excitement was occasioned here on Saturday evening by the elopement of Miss Lettie Barber, the daughter of a prominent miller, with Mr. George Craig, of Chicago. Mr. Craig had been a frequent visitor at this place for a year past, but for some time the parents of the young lady had looked with disfavor upon the young man's attentions to their daughter, and had forbidden his visits to her. On Saturday, however, the young people decided to be married, and were accordingly driven to Burlington, where the knot was tied, and they departed by the evening train from that place to Chi-

THE FORGER ARRESTED.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21-Herbert M. Thiers, the Kenesha forger, was arrested to-day in a lodging-house, at No. 70 Throop street, where for nearly a month he had been quietly boarding, under the name of Mr. Jesse. It is thought he was taken to Kenesha, but the sheriff in that city refuses to give any information in regard to the matter.

A FATAL FALL.

LA CROSSE, Nov. 21.—Louis Mouzer, a mulatto barber from Boscobel, where he has a family, got drunk in the city last evening, and entering the Minnesota house managed to fall over and strike the back of his head against a stove Subsequently be took a room at the Vine Street house, apparently only drunk, but this morning was found dead from the effects of his fall, coupled with the tanglefoot he had swallowed.

A WOMAN'S CRIME.

Adventurers of An Eronaut. The St. Petersburg Herald contains the particulars of the adventure of the Russian gronaut Rudolph, who ascended Russian eronaut Rudolph, who ascended in a balloon, and had been several day's reported missing. "The day selected for the flight was not a good one, the wind being strong and boisterous. My companion was Professor Baranovsky, of the Meteorological Observatory. On entering the car, I sang out to the twelve sallors holding it, to 'let go.' As the men dropped the ropes a sudden gust of wind struck the balloon and dashed it against some neighboring trees, the branches of which tore a hole in the silk before it had time to rise. I threw out before it had time to rise. I threw out ballast, but to no purpose. The car drifted along the ground till it approached a lake, when I begged the Pro-fessor to leave it, with his instruments. fessor to leave it, with his instruments. The sailors, running up just then soized hold of the ropes and enabled Baranovsky to get out. They begged me carnestly to do the same, on account of the dangerous condition of the balloon, but I refused. The Professor being clear of the car, I shouted to them to 'let go.' All obeyed the summons except one man, who was carried several feet into the air and dropped amid a general roar the air and dropped amid a general rear of laughter. After this the balloon sailed along tolerably well, and flew for fifty miles through the air, when, the gas being ex-hausted, it fell near the village of Rootchi. In a very few minutes it was surrounded by men and women, who proceeded to tear it to pieces, and ap-propriate all the articles in the car, including a fifteen guinea binocular glass, forgotten by Professor Baranovsky. In all probability I should also have experienced rough usage but for the opportune arrivat of a Colonet of the imperial Guards and two soldiers from a neighboring chateau. For a few minutes the peasants refused to release me, and defied the Colonel, but his determined attitude and threats to send for more soldiers, coupled with the presents mined attitude and threats to send for more soldiers, coupled with the presents of a few roubles to buy them a drink, induced them to relinquish me, though not my property. The Colonel very kindly took me home, and afterward put me in his carriage, with the balloon, and giving me two soldiers to protect me, sent me off to the railroad station,"

Ancient Form of Dress.

How did we come to possess our present form of dress? This is one of the many questions answered by a reviewer in the Nature. Clothing at first was almost entirely ornamental. The exceptions were such articles as helts from which instruments of various kinds could be suspended on as to be ready for use while the hands were left free. A savage does not enjoy the luxury of a pocket. Even at the present day a Japanese has to sling his tobacco pipe and pouch from his belt, and the only pockets he has are in his sleeves. The simple cincture was the germ, so to speak, of the clothing we wear. After some time a bunch of papers. wear. After some time a bunch of pan-danus slips was added in front, and this was gradually extended until it made a complete fringe around the body. When the arts became so far advanced that man could make paper cloth or some woven material these latter were substi-tuted for the primitive fringe, and the waven material these after were substi-tuted for the primitive fringe, and the kilt was thus developed. Curjously enough, the dress of the Scottish High-landers embodies these two stages of progress in the kilt and the sporran. As man advanced there were inconveniences attending the use of the kilt, which were abated by fastening that garment at one point between the logs, and the hundr mind was then fairly set upon the bath to arrive at the attainment of a pair of trousers. When the back and shoulders needed projection the savage tiged the needed protection the savage used the skin of some animal, and it is from this sort of covering for the upper part of the body that we have derived our coats, vests, shirts, &c. Dut the ancient cloak new is avan w such people as Zulu chiefs, but in all robes of ceremony by dignitaries of Court and college of the most highly civilized nations on the face of the earth. The elaborate and varied head coverings of the present day all sprang from a very simple original type.

Weather Signs.

There are certain weather signs that are a good deal to be relied upon. If at night you observe a remarkable clearness of the atmosphere near the horizon, and an unusual brilliancy or twinkling of the stars, it indicates unusual humidity in the upper regions of the atmosphere, and is therefore an indication of approaching rain. Dow and fogs are indications of fine weather, and halos, corons, &c., indicate rain or show. When the ontlines of cumulous clouds are share, it indicates a dry atmosphere, and, therefore, fine weather. A light scud driving across hazy clouds indicates heavy wind and rain. When the bare clouds move in a direction different ton that of the lower clouds, or that it the wind the lower clouds, or that it is the change.

A Leap-Year Episode.

A bashful young man—a New York drummer, by the way—has been visiting a young lady at the West End with a view to matrimony, but his extreme diffidence would never permit an avowal. A day or two ago the young lady, who has day or two ago the young lady, who has all along seen how matters stood, helped the youth out of his predicament nicely. Her younger sister came shyly up to the young man and asked: "Are you any relation to my sister?" He blushed and stammered until the young lady, taking pity on him, solved the matter by saying: "No, but he'd like to be; wouldn't you Alfred?" Cards will soon be out,—Loudsville Commercial. "What regiment is that on the other side?"

"Fifth Georgia," replied the sentinel.

"What battery is that?"
Here was a situation. The sergeant naturally didn't know the name of a battery in the robel army. Hesitation would have been fatal. By a lucky inspiration he replied, "one of Stuart's batteries," knowing that Job Stuart commanded their cavalry.

"Oh," said the other, "then you's a hoss battery?" Morgan Park Theological seminary, is at home this week to enjoy his Thanksgiving vacation.

"Excuse me, Captain," said the sergeant, "but we're camped between a Georgia and an Alabama regiment." Dan'l Plank, of Brooklyn, Tioga Co., 'a., describes it thus: "I rode thirty made with a view of having the lad sent to the reform school, but the evidence failed to shoot him gailty and imposed to the reform the gailty and imposed to the failed to shoot him gailty and imposed to the sent to the employe of the sent to the sent to the employe of the sent to the sent to the employe of the sent to up. Horses were hitched in quietly, and the battery withdrew from between the sleeping regiments, who never knew of the prize that was within their grasp.—

Fascination in Man.

Having frequently seen is stated in popular works on natural history, as well as in some books of travels (chiefly Australian) that certain snakes possessed the power of so fascinating, with their gaze, birds and other creatures as to be able to seize upon and devour them without any difficulty. I am influeed to inquire if creatures as to be able to solve upon and devour them without any difficulty. I am induced to inquire it such a power is peculiar to the serpent tribe or not, and incidentally to ask if any instance of its influence or extension can be traced up the scale of creation to man himself. Being of opinion that such a series of thirty or forty dollars to reglace the horse leastly Joz. Craig. He needed with assistance and we are glad that he has got it.

—The Stone Bros. shot 187 ducks Friday and Saturday of the stone of the students in the siege. lost his leg by a shot on the slope of the hill under the castle." "He saw the shot before the fatal effect, but was fascinated to the spot. This sudden arrest of the faculties was not uncommon. Several instances occurred to my own observation where men totally free have had their senses so engaged by a shell in its descent that, though sensible of their danger, even so far as to cry for assistance, they have been immediately fixed to the place. But what is more re-markable, these men have so instantaneously recovered themselves on its fall to the ground as to remove to a place of safety before the shell burst." Al-luding to the first casualty that occurred at Cawnpore during the siege of the in-trenchments there in 1857, Mowbray says (The Story of Cawnpore, page 66) that "several of us saw the ball bound-ing the story of the ball bounding toward us, and he (McGuire) evidently saw it, but like many others whom I saw fall at different times he seemed fascinated to the spot," and an old and now deceased departmental friend, who went through the whole Crimean campaign, assured me that he was once transfixed (fascinated, he called it) after this fashion in the presence of a shell that he sawissuing from Sebastoshell that he saw issuing from Sebasto-pol, and whose every gyration in the air he could count. Other military friends have discussed the point with me in this same wise, and I think there is some allusion to it in one or other of the works of Larry Guthrie, Ballingall, or others of that ilk,—Nature.

Fish fer Food.

During the last twenty years chemists and physiologists have been studying the nutritious value of various foods. They have advanced so far as to compute the relative values of the common articles of diet. These have been so arranged in tables that the bread-winner of the household may see at a giance what food will give the most nourishment to his family A prominent subject of these studies has been the common food fishes. At the recent meeting of the Ameican Asso-ciation of Science, Professor Atwater, a chemist, gave some of the results of these experimental studies.

In one hundred pounds of the flesh of fresh cod there are eighty-three pounds of water, and only seventeen pounds of solids. In the same weight of salmon there are sixty-six and one-half pounds of water, and thirty-three and one-half pounds of solids. The meaning of these figures is that a family eating one hun-dred pounds of cod would be nourished by only one-sixth of it, while if they feed on the same weight of salmon, they would find one-third nutritious,

Next in nutritive value to salmon come fat halibut, shad, and whitefish. Then follow mackerel, bluestih, lean halibut, striped bass, flounder, and lake tront. The order in which they are placed indicates their relative value as food. Lean beef is less nutritious than salmon, as it contains seventy-five per cent. of water and twenty-five per cent, of solids.

While fish is highly nutritious and healthy, there is a somewhat exaggerated notion that it is particularly valuable for brain food on aclarly valuable for brain food on account of the large amount of phosphorus which it contains. The notion owes some of its popularity to a remark alleged to have been made by the late Professor Agassiz. "When I wish to be very brilliant," he is reported as saying, "I eat fish for dinner." But Professor Atwater says that the notion is not founded upon fact. While fish is excellent there is no evidence to prove that the flesh of fish is richer in phosphorus than are other meats.—Youth's Companthan are other meats. -- Youth's Compan-

H. A. PATTERSON, P. M.

H. A. PATTERSON, P. M.

In regard to the not unfrequent inch dents which happen in human experience, of one's dreaming that death or calamity has overtaken a friend or relative, and afterwards discovering that the catastrophe came to pass at the exact minute of the dream, scientists say, altowance is not made for the difference in time between the place where the dreamer lives and the place where the death occurs. Thereupon a San Francisco woman dreamed that her father in New England was run over and killed by the cars. She awoke and looked at the clock. It was midnight. A week afterward, she says that she roceived the news of her father's death exactly as she dreamed it, and it happened at 9 o'clock in the evening of the night on which she saw the occuronce in her sleep. The exact difference of three hours in the time, she argued, made her dream and her father's death tally exactly. But some cold-blooded critic points out that there is a mistake somewhere; because when it is midnight in San Francisco, it is three o'clock in the morning in New England, hence, according to her own story her father was killed six bours before she saw him die. A correspondent of the New York Evening Post points out a similar dis crepancy in Bret Harte's poom "Her Letter," in which a New York girl "dressed just as she came from the dance," is described as writing to her lover, a miner in the "far West." She onds it up by bidding him "good night, if the longitude please," for while she "is wasting her taper," his "sun's climbing over the trees." The poet has got things twisted because the sun rises in New York three hours before it does in San Francisco, and if it were one or two c'clock. Francisco, and if it were one or two o'clock in the morning after the dance when she was writing to her lover, he, instead of watching the sun rise was, if a good young man of regular habits, like all Pacific coast miners, just getting into bod. One needs to remember when calculating differences of time, that, although the sun appears to move from East to West, the earth actually does move from West to East, and that prople West of us are, at any given moment, doing what we were doing several min-ntes or hours ago, not what we will be doing by and by. On the contrary, Eastern people have finished doing for the day or night what we are doing at the present moment.—Free Press.

On Behavior in a Crowd.

The wholesome element, the safety valve of a crowd, says a writer in London Society, is the good example that may be set. Happily, a good example is as infectious and efficacious as a bad one. As a matter of social ethics every man ought to have made up his mind what will be his conduct if he happens to be in a crowd. It is impossible altogether to eliminate the explosiveness of a mob. very soon forms and puts into expression a popular judgment. If a member of it shows any shortness of temper or badness of conduct, he is speedily hustled and bonneted, and is left to form his own conclusions on the nature and character of a democracy.

There are always elements of danger stored up in a crowd. Not without reason Socrates spoke of the Anthenian crowd as a kind of wild beast that requires watching and studying. Often enough a crowd has proved itself a kind of wild beast that will tear its victim to pieces. The great moralist, Mr. Pickwick, has given us an important lesson on behavior in a crowd. When he arrived in the burough of Estanswill and found it in a state of uprorious excitement, his friends asked him what they had better do. "Shout with the crowd," was that truly great man's ready response. "But if there are two crowds?" they inquired. "Shout with the largest." "Volumes," says Dickons, "could have said no more;" if, indeed they could say as much. Unfortunately truth is not dependent on majorities. It is not to be an extended the majority of the ascertained by any method of the mere counting of noses. An historical essay might be written, which might prove very sad and terrible reading, on the enormities of crowds. A crowd is peculiarly liable to be acted upon disastrously by panies. In a panio more people are killed by the terror than by the circumstances that inspire the terror. A mob will go utterly mad with fright. It will prove itself utterly deficient in caution, coolness and courage. Thus on board a sinking or burning vessel some people will go mad with frenzy and others break into the spirit room. I once heard of the case of a clergyman who, just before preaching, discovered that the church was on fire. He, nevertheless, ascended the pulpit, gave out a text, and delivered what was the shortest sermon in the world. He then dismissed them in a quiet and orderly fashion. The reverend gentleman had an admirable fusiont respecting behavior in a crowd.

French millinery consist, have distinctive trimmings that depend entirely upon the size and shape of the bonnets. Feathers are used upon them all, and this is the only feature they have in common. For pokes the object is to display the outlines of the bonnet. hence the ribbons are placed very flatly and the feathers curl away from the side instead of being clustered against it and concealing it. Plush and velvet are the materials most used for pokes, and these are smooth on the frame, the shired interiors being less used then and these are smooth on the frame, the shirred interiors being less used than formerly. Contrasting colors are chosen for lining brims, and this is of shaded plush, or else of very long pile plush of a becoming shade, as crevette on the plush of a becoming shade, as crevette on the plush is inside of a or shrimp pink plush is inside of a bronze plush poke, orange plush lines a mordore, or golden brown, bonnet, and ombre red plush makes a stylish facing for myrtle green or black pokes. To complete such a bonnet it is enough to use watered or satin ribbon three or four inches wide, double it across the back of the crown, fasten it with a flat headed gift pin on each side, and let it fall thence in strings. Then on the left side is a very large pompon of estrich feathers of the color of the plush, above which are two short ostrich tips that curl outward from the bonnet. This is very elegant when made of myrtle green plush, ribbon of the same color, watered on one side and satin on the other. a myrtle pompon and two tips that are shaded green and gold. The pins of gilt have star-shaped heads, and three similar pins are thrust bias just below the crown on the curtain band. Other pokes have the ribbon passed up from behind the crown, lapped on top and tied in a stiff, old-fashioned bow that lies on the right side, thence passing down as if to the the sides close to the head, and then forming strings. A long-looped bow with the loops drooping softly and short ends fastens the bonnet under the chin. Sometimes the ribbon bow is tied at the top of the grown and the at the top of the crown on the left side and its two loops are sewed flatly on the back of the crown; this bow seems to hold the panache of feather tips, which curl outward and forward on the left side, and may consist of any number from two to six, or even eight. For young faces nothing can be prettier than the pokes of mossgreen plush with rose pink lining next the face, and both colors repeated in the feathers, while for the more elderly the orange and dark ruby facings will be used with old silver colors outside, or brown, senhicuse or mystla green.

For small bonnets the foundations are larger than those worn last year, and the trimmings are much fuller than any seen on pokes. The brims are slightly raised above the front hair, and may be lined with shirred velvet or with striped or "ploughed" plush, and the edge of the brim is finished with rows of long large faceted beads either of jet or of the colors used in the bonnet, and these beads are tied together with gilt cord by the milliner as she sews them on. There are also large balls of tinsel, graduated smaller to-ward the sides, to be used for the same purpose. Bias plush, lain in corrugated folds, is outside the brim of small bonnets, while the crown is flat. Plumes nodding out from the crown on the left or a very large aigrette or pompon, and some fanciful orna-ments of old silver, or polished brass, or metal in the shape of insects or ong complete the trimming. The strings are invariably of ribbon—plush, satin, moire or changeable satin Surah. If ribbon is used for trimming, it has the effect of Alsacian bows, though merely placed in two rows, broadened at the ends instead of being looped. Laces also have the same Alsacian effect given by plaiting in clusters on each side of the front. Plaited brims are seen on many velvet bonnets, and there are some cap crowns, though smooth crowns, beaded crowns and feather crowns, especially those of the golden pheasant, are preferred. The new che-nille and guipure lace is also prettily massed on the crown, or elso allowed to fall over the edge of the brim in a becoming way. Chenille and plush flowers of large size, roses, dahlias, nasturtiums, asters and lilies are clustered on the left side of the bonnet quite high up, instead of drooping as they formerly did. Birds are also much used on small bonnets. They are generally cut in half from beak to tail, and sometimes only the head and breast are used, but more often the whole length of the bird is given. It is placed with the head upward on the top of the brim, and a bit of French sentiment shows turtle doves, or the pure white scabicuse, or myrtle green. A ruche of ostrich feathers on the edge of a poke is also becoming, warm-looking, and tones the complexion. The beaver and felt pokes sold in the shops are trimmed in the simple styles just described, and now that ribbon is used a great many ladies will be successful with their own millingry.

dove, with a ribbon about the neck that seems to tie it to the bonnet. The Longchamps, Bolero and Gainsborough round hats are of velvet, plush, beaver or felt, and are trimmed with feathers, birds and bias scarfs of plush or velvet, with some guipuro and chenille lace. The accordeon crown is the novelty for such hats. This is a four-corned piece, stifly lined, and resting upon folds like those of an accordeon. The effect is very pretty in black velvet, with the brim lined with solid jet galloon, edged with large faceted jet beads, and many nodding ostrich tips outside.--Harper's Bazar.

Freezing Fish for the Fall. Some time ago we printed an interesting description of the process of freezing fresh fish by a method patented by Mr. D. W. Davis, of this city. By this process the fish are paced in layers of pulverized ice and then frozen solid, of pulverized ice and then frozen solid, so that they come out as fresh and plump as when first caught. It will be interesting to read a brief description of the process. A galvanized iron pan thirty-five inches long, twenty-five inches wide and four inches deep will hold about thirty pounds of pulverized ice and fifty pounds of fish. The fish, after being packed in these pans with the pulverized ice, are piled in bins with after. verized ice, are piled in bins with afternate layers of ice and salt, which are in the right proportion to produce a tem-perature of zero. There they remain for twelve to fifteen hours, after which time the fish and pulverized ice in each pan will have thoroughly congealed into a solid cake—the fish scarcely perceptible—just like a square block of ice cut out of the river in midwinter. These blocks of fish are then packed and stored away in massive freezing chambers, where the temperature is never allowed to rise above the freezing point, and where they remain just in exactly

-The funeral services of Andrew Robinson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Robinson were held this afternoon | izing into a jolly company marched in at the family residence. Rev. Mr. full force to Mr. Mead's residence in the Holmes officiating.

-Rescue Hook and Ladder company has its dance at Cannon's hall to-morrow evening. Anderson's band is to furnish the music, and there will be no lack in the needfuls which make up a good time.

-O. C. Ford and B. F. Crossett have already manufactured this season 1,000 barrels of choice buckwheat flour, which they have sent to all points of the compass. The flour is choice indeed, and meets with a pressing domand.

-The knitting factory is working a full force, and is now turning out nearly 300 pairs of stockings per day. Besides the usual run of goods hose are being made, and the factory is doing better work and more of it than

-Mr. L. O. Robinson desires in behalf of himself and family to express thanks to all friends who in so many ways have Rev. Mr. Holmes, of the First church, showed so much kindly sympathy with them in their time of trouble, and during the illness of their son, who to-day was

-The corn exchange building, which for many years has occupied the site in the center of the triangle at the corner of Milwaukee and Franklin streets, has been moved north on Franklin street, thus leaving the triangle clear. No one can grumble about it any longer.

-S. Holdredge, Jr., has received a telegram stating that the remains of the late Mr. Gurdon Leonard will arrive in this city at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. Arrangements have accordingly been made for holding the funeral services at the tamily residence on South Main street to-morrow forenoon at 10:30 o'clock.

-To-day in the Circuit Court, Michael Egan, of Racine county, is on trial for horse-stealing, the offense charged havmg been committed three or four years ago. District Attorney Cooper, of Racine, uppears for the State, and Attorneys William Crosten, of Racine, and William Smith, of this city, appear for the defend-

-The cases of Frank Shuman and Mrs. Anna Sullivan, charged with adultery, created some little stir when they first came to public notice, but the interest has died out largely now. Their cases have been called up in the Circuit Court and both continued until the next term, the accused giving their own individual recognizances in the sum of $500 each for their appearance then.

—Prentice & Evenson are among the most skillful and enterprising adverlisers in this city, and show great ingenuity, and good judgment in attracting the attention of the public, and exciting s curiosity which finds expression in the query, "what next?" They have in another column a sample of their novel way of advertising. What is better than all else, their goods and manner of doing business, fully back up all their promises and assertions.

—The Rittes, at their meeting last evening, voted not to go to Janesville as a company. Arrangements have been made with the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Januarille, few eight rods square in southeast corner, in a body or in parcels to suit purchase. Three Dwelling Houses on the premises.

-One of the best ways to settle that big turkey dinner is to attend the matinee at the Opera house next Thursday afternoon. Were is not for the fact of its being a holiday the public here would not have this rare chance to see that most amusing extravaganza "Babes in the Wood." It will prove a rare feast of music and mirth. Favorite bits of "Olivette," "Mascotte" and other popular operas will be given a place in the entertainment. It will be as taking an entertainment as that to be given in the even

-C. H. Keck, of the Second ward, who is employed at the cotton factory, while proceeding to work as usual in the morning, met with quite a serious accident. As he was nearing the railroad track he fancied he heard a train approaching; and in hurrying over, fell. His right hand struck against the frog in such a manner that his thumb was so badly Incerated as to be almost severed, and his wrist recaived an ugly gash which opened the muscle and laid bare the tendens. Dr. Judd attended to the injuries and now Keck wears his arm in a sling, and is laid off duty for the present.

-Tais ovening Ray. Frank P. Woodbury, of Rockford, is to give his fecture ou "The Story of the Book," at the Congregational church. It is pronounced one of the best of the series. The St. Paul Press says: "Those who heard Mr. Woodbury's lecture on 'The Story of the Book,' are enthusiashe over his ability as a lecturer. The lecture was richly illustrated with large paintings of the palaces convents, libraries and crypts, where ancient scripture manuscripts have been discovered or are preserved, together with a great number of pages and pictures out of the old bibles thomselves." -Louis Bradley was brought before Emmons, of Janesville, appeared for the defense, and Mr. U. E. Pierce, of Janesville, for the State. The goods were identified, and witnesses from Shirland, Ill., testified that Bradley gave them the goods. Bradley was accordingly held for trial in the municipal court on December 5th. Bail was fixed at $500, in default of which the prisoner was committed to the county ail for safe keeping.—Belait Free Press.

WEDDED AND REWEDDED.

The Pricade of Roy, and Mrs. A. J. Mead Remind Them of Their Wedding Anniversary.

Last evening a complete surprise was carried out successfully, the honored victims of which were Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Mead. A large number of their friends of the Methodist persuasion, met unbeknown to them at the residence of W. F. Carle in the First ward, and thus organsame ward. They found the worthy couple wholly unprepared for wholesale visitation, the family having arranged for a quiet evening at home. The surprised ones were taken completely aback as the friends kept pouring in until the rooms were filled, but they rallied speedily enough to extend an honest and hearty welcome, and to comprehend the situation, the sudden visitation being a happy reminder that twenty years ago was the wedding day of which this was the anniversary.

After the friends had laid aside their outer wrappings, and exchanged greet ings, Mr. and Mrs. Mead were guided into the parlor, where another knot was tied in the bond which by test of time has shown that its strength needed no such help. asked some very humorous preliminary questions of the candidates for this further degree in matrimony, and much merriment was caused by the queries and answers. He then tied the new knot, and Rev. Mr. Curtis, of Court street church, was called upon to add to the ceremony. He made some more serious remarks, which were full of tenderness, and which served as a happy shading to the mirth which had so appropriately graced the opening part of the service. Rev. I. S. Leavitt, of Edgerton, offered prayer, and the company joined in singing "Praise God from all blessings flow." The friends, then offered congratulations and well-wishes and a short season of social chatting followed.

Among the very practical reminders of the anniversary was an elegant dinnerset of Duncau ware, which was quietly placed by the friends upon the diningroom table, and also twenty eggs in a nest which was lined with silver dollars. These gifts were the expression of appreciation on the part of friends in the churches of this city, and in which joined some of the friends in the Janesville district, of which Mr. Mead is the presiding elder. The occasion was in all respects s happy one, and the honors were most worthily bestowed.

The attraction of the week in the unusement line has been the pretty, instructive and cutertaining show given by the Bohemian glass blowers in the old Democrat block. This entertainment came to us with good notices, but it made no noisy pretensions. Hence our people have been happily disappointed in the real merits of the show, and it is a pleasure to state that the manager, Mr.

King, was greeted with overflowing houses, which yesterday culminated in a regular "no-more standing-room" crowd. The entertainment is first class. The skill of Woodroffe and Hopkins in producing amazingly beautiful forms from glass is certainly unrivalled. We bespeak for Mr. King and his wonderful glass blowers a liberal patronage everywhere, and the courtesies due gentlemen.
